Conserving the herbaria of BRIT, SMU, and VDB

Contract: Consulting and Research Services

The Botanical Research Institute of Texas (hereafter referred to as "BRIT") offers its consulting and research services on a contract basis to businesses, corporations, conservation agencies, environmental and ecological consulting firms, nature writers, and others (hereafter referred to as "the client") needing such professional services.

BRIT agrees to perform the consulting and research services specified by the client in a professional and timely manner.

The client agrees to submit a written scope of work that details what services BRIT is being contracted to complete. Prior to signing the contract, the client agrees to state any deadlines for completion of the project.

The client may choose to pay at either of the following rates:

- 1) $50/hour
- 2) $300/day

Rates for long-term projects requiring the use of BRIT staff and facilities for consulting and research services for more than five days can be negotiated and contracted on a case-by-case basis.
